How can I have my CD, DVD, or game added to the AMG database?

AMG will add any product submissions we receive to the database as long as they are commercially available in their country of release. The best way to ensure that your title receives full coverage is for you to send us one copy of the product along with any relevant promotional materials, such as press releases and artist photos. All materials should be addressed to:

What happens once AMG receives my product?

Your CD or DVD will go through a data entry and scanning process in which everything from credits to track and chapter listings to cover art will be entered into the database. AMG editors may also assign descriptors such as genres, styles, and moods to the title. Your product will then be stored in our archive in case there is a future need to review, add to, or correct the data.

How long will it take for my product to appear on the AMG web site?

Your product should appear on our web site within 4-6 weeks after we receive your materials.

My title is a theatrical film, not a physical product. Can it still be listed in the database?

Certainly. Simply mail a press kit to the Product Submissions address listed above.

Will AMG review or synopsise my product, or write my biography?

We try to review and synopsise as many CDs, films, and DVDs as possible, but we can't make any promises about which titles and performers will receive this level of coverage. Resource constraints make it necessary for us to prioritize coverage based on factors such as current popularity, historical or artistic importance, and the needs of our data licensees.

If I send you my biography or a write-up on my product, will you add it to your database?

Our editorial policy is that all reviews, synopses, and biographies must be written by AMG staff and freelance contributors, so we cannot use copy supplied by artists and labels or studios. This copy is very helpful to us as research material, though, so please do send it along.

Who can I contact regarding the status of my submission?

You may inquire about the status of your product submission via postal mail or email (Product_Submissions@allmusic.com), but due to the volume of inquiries we receive, we cannot guarantee a personal response. Phone inquiries are not accepted. We are also unable to grant requests that your title be moved up in priority or entered into the database within a specific time frame, but rest assured that all commercially available titles submitted will be entered on a first-come, first-served basis.

My product information is appearing on your website, but not on some of the e-commerce sites you supply data to. Can you fix that?

If your product is appearing on the AMG website that means the data is available for our licensees to use. It is up to each AMG licensee to determine what products they present. Any questions you have about the presentation of your product on a licensee's website should be directed to that licensee.
